

A New Heart

Yesterday, I suddenly fainted at home and my mother called for an ambulance. I was sent to a hospital in 15 minutes.

After the doctor diagnosed me, he confirmed that I had a myocardial infarction and I must replace my heart with a machine heart. That meant I needed to have an operation!

Before the operation, I was very nervous and worried, but my parents and some nurses encouraged me. After the doctor injected me with an anaesthetic needle, I gradually 'fell asleep'.

The operation was a success and the doctor told me to stay in the bed for about two days. My parents were very pleased because I could survive. I was very thankful to the doctors and nurses who saved me.

In the history of mankind, cancer is the worst disease in my opinion. Cancer is a disease in which some of the body cells grow uncontrollably and spread to other parts of the body. They spread all over your body. It will fight with your body for more than a month. You can die at anytime. There are just four ways to cut off your broken body cells, however your average rate of survival is less than 45%.

After a few years of researching, I have finally invented a medicine that can increase your rate of survival. Although it can be 100% successful in helping people survive, it has some side effects such as blurred vision for a period of time and a serious headache.

I will tell my neighbours that I have invented a medicine which can fight against cancer. However, I won't apply, this medicine is made by some materials which can <sup>a patent</sup> be bought from a shop. I hope this invention will help others.

One morning at school

Last Wednesday morning, I got to school early and no-one was there. I went to the playground and played basketball. After a while I put my school bag down in the classroom. When I finished playing basketball, I felt very tired and took a little rest at the canteen, before the school started I fell asleep and then the teacher woke me up. I felt so embarrassed.

My Special Day

Last Wednesday morning, I got up early and I was so excited because I had an afterschool club activity, it was a cooking club. I like cooking very much. I saw that everyone was sleeping, so I decided to go to school by myself.

I went to the bathroom and get dressed. I was careful to be quiet not to wake anyone up. Then I made my breakfast, then I was ready.

I ran to the bus stop to see if there was a bus. I saw a bus is coming to the bus stop, and I also saw a few people. The bus took me to school. I saw that no-one else was in the school, except me and Mr. Tam. I said 'I got here early today.' Mr. Tam said 'It's a school holiday today.' I felt so silly of myself, but I'm also proud of my self too.
