

Belinda Ewers' Monologue

It was dinner time on June 9th but I had no appetite at all, I was in a melancholic mood the last few days. I knew that my husband has been in love with my brother's wife. Visiting my brother was just another excuse for him to meet Martina. I didn't eat much and went up to my room. I told them I was tired, but actually I just didn't want to face up to my husband and Martina.

I sat on the bed and thought, even meditated. I thought about every random thing and things that are none of my business. I've heard that Harry has a gun in his house. I wonder where it is. How dangerous! Everyone seems to have left the dining table. I think I should go to bed earlier tonight? Wait! There are sounds. One of them is Harry's. Is he arguing with Martina? Has he found out yet? No, it's his partner, Julian Clayton. I hear the words 'bank' and 'account'. They're talking about money - How about Craig and Martina? Where would they be at this moment? I tried to stop thinking about them, but I just couldn't. Wind blew in through the windows and sent trees rustling. Were they mocking at me too? I leaned over to close the window. An idea came to my mind "What if I go downstairs while everyone thought I was asleep?" Maybe I could just catch Craig and Martina redhanded.

As I was walking down the stairs, I clived into my meaningless thinking again. Twice, I almost rolled down the stairs because I wasn't paying attention to what I was doing. However, my meandering thoughts came to a halt from an ear-piercing sound. It took me a few seconds to realise what that was. Then a second gun shot was heard. I screamed. I rushed to the source of the shot and found Harry lying motionless on the floor, with Julian Clayton standing beside. He was bleeding profusely, so I took the blanket on the sofa and wrapped it around his injured arm. Martina arrived. I found myself slightly relieved when she wasn't coming with Craig, even in these manic moments. When Craig entered with a gun, my heart sank. Did Craig and Martina plan the murder together to get rid of Martina's husband? That was my primary suspicion.

Yanie Li WTE8B

Mother Teresa was an Albanian-Indian Catholic nun. She was born in Skopje and was raised in a Catholic family. She was also the winner of the Nobel Peace Prize 1979.

Mother Teresa had an elder brother and an elder sister. Her father was a businessman and also a nationalist but he was assassinated when Mother Teresa was nine. In 1929, she arrived in India and started her novitiate. She taught at St. Teresa's School for almost twenty years. In 1946, Mother Teresa visited Darjeeling by train and she discovered that she should help the poor in India so she left the school and founded the Missionaries of Charity.

Mother Teresa began to help the poor while living among them in 1948 and founded the Missionaries of Charity in 1950. She offered free services and assistance to the poor, no matter what their nationalities or religions were. She set up an orphanage and hospice to take care of whoever was in need.

I admire Mother for what she did for the poor. She left her own country and gave up her stable job. She lived in a slum in India with the poor so that she could know what difficulties they were facing. Mother Teresa's dedication had helped the poorest and most vulnerable people in society and this is why I admire her so much.

Venita Lau WTEBA

*If you judge people, you have no time
to love them*

Mother Teresa

Keep A Pet

E-Smart Learning Centre

I think classroom can keep a pet such as a bird on turtle but it can't keep pet as no one to take care.

It can keep a pet because it can swim with you, study with you, play board games with you. The cats are cute and friendly.

It can't keep pet because the fur is soft students will play at it but we have classes at school will just have one recess.

The cat is cute and friendly, so I think the cat is my best friend.

Gigi Chong
WTE-4B

The Thief

Last night, when I was asleep, I heard a thief breaking entry into through the window. He wanted to steal the most expensive things in my home.

I felt fearful so I watch him. He had short hair and wore glasses. He sneaked into the living room and picked up an expensive vase. I was in shock! I wake up my parents and said 'Please call the police by your mobile phones. There a thief!' they are shocked too.

In the end, the police came to my home and caught the thief. I felt happy because the police caught the thief so I couldn't sleep.

W124B Holly Yau

The healthy problems of Hong kong students

In school, we only have one hour for doing sports lesson but such as my school, there are three hours of sports lessons and they teach us how to stay healthy. But they don't give us have a healthy body because children under 17 need to do one hours of exercise every day.

Now children like to play video games and watch TV very much and they almost sit on the sofa and don't stand or move. Also, in school, there is not much time for us to exercise and only sit on the chair to listen to what the teachers say.

I don't agree. Hong kong students are healthy. In our school, some classmates can only do 23 sit-ups in a test. I think the school should ask the students to join a school team and have two different days for sports lesson. Also the lunch should be more healthy such as 55% carbohydrates, 20% protein and 10-15% fats. This is the best distribution of the energy in our body.

Also, the teacher should tell the parents to do exercise with their child, such as push ups, one-mile run and sit-ups. The exercise can help them for not getting too fat and if you have too much fat, you have more chances to have heart diseases. And you can't perform well in sport.

Finally, Hong kong students being unhealthy is not only the school's problem. It's the problem of all the parents. They all should take care of their health more better.

WTZ 6A

Li Tsz Hin

